The Society was founded in 1880 and its membership is open to anyone who is medically qualified. The Society arranges meetings at approximately monthly intervals from September to June according to a programme suggested by the Council. The content of the meetings varies from purely scientific to purely social, but most evenings are a mixture of both.

A buffet supper is provided whenever possible.

It may be assumed that guests, both medical and non-medical, may be invited to meetings and functions unless the contrary is stated. Notices giving full details of future events are sent to members. Cheques made payable to Cambridge Medical Society should reach the Hon. Secretary by the date requested in the notice. Tickets are not issued.

The Society welcomes new applications for membership which should be addressed to the membership secretary using the application form attached.

The annual membership fee is £20.00
